

How to blog your wedding business

If your wedding business doesn't have a blog, you will be losing money. Fact. Why? Because a blog is free promotion for your wedding business. Keeping a regularly-updated space on the internet will keep you highly visible to search engines. Being visible to search engines means more traffic. And the more web traffic you can generate yourself, the less you have to spend on advertising your wedding business. A successful wedding business blog will support your wedding business, bringing potential customers through your door. Imagine you have a high street shop. Outside your shop is a glittering pebble pathway leading to the front door. It's an attention-grabber and draws people into your shop. That's what a blog will do for you online.
