I am not writing this book to generate money for myself. Nonfiction Book royalties can be good but one cant subsist on these. I am writing this text because I look around every day and see such sadness in many people because they are not happy with their lives monetarily. I talk to people who express this and see people on the street who obviously need help. Mostly through friends I hear their stories of lost jobs, their children who graduated college some with master degrees and cant find meaningful work, some who cant even work in fast food restaurants. When I first got the idea of helping people with a text dealing with how to change your life monetarily I wanted it to be a simple here is how; first do this and then do that. However as I gave more and more thought to the book I realized the success of generating a lot of money was based on my lifes experience starting when I was seven years old. After giving much thought to my personal success I realized I was following my lifes personal endeavor to achieve wealth and happiness which go together. This success started at age seven and continues today. In other words my autobiography! Many close friends and family have urged me over the decades to write about my life as it has been very unusual sometimes downright exciting. I have responded with an emphatic no. After all Im not famous; Im just another grain of sand in an ocean of sand within the vast world we live in. One night while having dinner at one of my favorite restaurants The Sandbar in La Quinta California a lady approached me and said, I recognize you from television but cant remember who you are. I responded back, No you are mistaken Im not in show business. She looked at me closely and said, You mean you are a no body? Ill never forget that because she was right Im a no body so whenever Im asked to write about myself I remember what she said. This changed when deciding to write about changing your life forever monetarily. I started my adventure at seven years of age and over the decades made and lost millions. I generated in today's money fifteen million dollars over a thirteen year period the first time around. I lost nearly all of it in thirty seconds when I responded to a question asked by my attorney, responding with the word No instead of Yes. This is getting into the story so I'll let my reader discover it in sequence. And yes I generated it back and this is why I'm writing this text so you too can do the same.
