

Colt O'Brien knew that he had everything figured out. He was going to graduate from college and become an expert computer technologist. But somehow life had other plans. His girlfriend became pregnant and suddenly it was time for Colt to be a family man. After one short year of college he needed to fill his resume with whatever he could and start to look for a job while adjusting to married life and fatherhood. Colt goes into marriage with optimism and confidence. He expects to overcome any obstacles. However, his dependable psychic sense seems to be sleeping. Soon the challenges mount up as he traverses the unsteady seas of his new life. Assailed by worldly temptation, deceit and most of all lack of sleep, it's time for Colt to become a man.
