

A Season in My Life: A true story of losing a child, grief, and restoration

Losing someone you love is heart-wrenching. Especially a child, the loss of a son. I have decided to share the situations I faced through this book as there were false accusations, and i was looked at as the perpetrator in the death of our son. Facing 51 years imprisonment. But God, gave me freedom and justice. It is my prayer that through these pages you will find encouragement and strength. I pray that this book will inspire and comfort you, and helps you find peace in some way. Keep pressing forward. In dealing with grief, keep your faith in God, for He is more than able to do all things. You will have healing by Gods grace, trusting in God alone. He can, and will give you beauty for ashes again. Vindication!
