The Big Bang that Nobody Heard: How Evolution Impacts Your Faith (Prophetically Correct Book 1)

Evolution as proposed by Charles Darwin denies the possibility of a Creator God, and views history as a closed continuum which consists of a series of natural causes and events. Buoyed by scientific explanations and political support, Darwins views have become commonplace and are promoted in all levels of academia. While many have rejected the widely disseminated opinions of the high profile scientists who promote evolution, there are a significant number who believe them to be true. These adherents to evolution often assign creationists to the camp of the naive, as they cling tenaciously to their illusions of scientific certainty. So convicted are they on the correctness of their positions, that few take the time to examine the foundations of that which they perceive to be fact. But what are the foundations of evolution? And is it as certain as millions believe?
