Excerpt from Information About Norfolk, Portsmouth, Berkley, Virginia and Vicinity: The Three Cities Whose Industrial Growth and Common Commercial Interests Bid Fair to Result, Through Civic Union, in What May Be Called Greater Norfolk. Some time between 1630 and 1649, upon the banks of the Elizabeth river and its branches, all being arms of the Chesapeake bay, in the extreme southeastern part of the state, the earliest settlers of Tidewater Virginia made their homes. From these early settlements there came into being little towns, which have grown since that period into connected settlements, still bearing different names, but practically united by one community of interests. The oldest charter granted was to Norfolk Borough, issued in 1736, and superseded by the city charter in 1845. In 1752, Portsmouth was incorporated as a city, and in 1890 Berkley obtained its charter as a city. While these are the principal cities, others have grown up, such as West Norfolk, South Norfolk, Port Norfolk, Lamberts Point, Pinnars Point, Sewells Point, Huntersville, Tanners Creek and others, all component parts of one residential and business community. As we now hear of the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, of Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond as integral parts of Greater New York, so in the near future we shall hear of the Boroughs of Norfolk, of Portsmouth and of Berkley as component parts of what we may for convenience call Greater Norfolk.
