

Is That All There Is?

A career-spanning collection from the heir to Herge. By appropriating and subverting Tintin creator Herges classic clear line style, Joost Swarte revitalized European alternative comics in the 1970s with a series of satirical, musically elegant, supremely beautifully drawn short stories ? often featuring his innocent, magnificently-quiffed Jopo de Pojo, or his rotund scientist character, Anton Makassar. Under Swartes own exacting supervision, Is That All There Is? will collect virtually all of his alternative comics work from 1972 to date, including the RAW magazine stories that brought him fame among American comics aficionados in the 1980s. Especially great pains will be taken to match Swartes superb coloring, which includes stories executed in watercolor, comics printed in retro duotones, fiendishly clever use of Zip-a-Tone screens, and much more. (Theres even a story about how to color comics art using those screens, with Makassar as the teacher.) Other noteworthy stories include Swartes take on an episode from Herges early days, a Fats Domino story, a tribute to the legendary Upside-Downs strip, and a story titled simply Modern Art. 120 pages of full-color comics
