

What if we had to rely on man to bring the sunrise up each and every day, this would never happen. What if we had to rely on man to bring the sunsets and blanket the sky with the stars each and every night, again this would never happen. Oh, and how the day eases into night. What if for your existence you had to rely on man to supply your oxygen, well if man supplied your oxygen it would come at a cost, just like your natural gas, water and electric is available to you, only if you pay monthly for it. But no matter what, these pleasures are given to you without cost because God sustains you. The majestic views of snow capped mountains; the tumbleweed that blows in the wind. The animals that graze on steep cliffs and you wonder how do they maintain their balance and graze at the same time. All these things are taken for granted. There is the spiritual realm that speaks to you through the spirit and nature. God speaks to you through your spirit and a knowing that God is... by a knowing that all that is, was not until he made it come to be. Nature speaks to us should we be apparent to listen. Once weve slowed down and taken the time to realize the signs. Inspiration from nature speaks to the soul; it shows you a different way of thinking of how life works. Nature is a healer. Nature is a delight to the soul. The magnificent sunsets are each offering a vivid eloquent response to the natural world. In the midst of nature, one becomes part of the sun's warmth and sway to the breezes and the wind according to its thrust. The sun's warmth that soothes the skin; the harmonious relationship between us and nature; the body, mind, spirit and soul is rejuvenated by each minute spent in nature. The refreshed self is once again able to endure the blows of life once again. Nature speaks to your soul and spirit by being mesmerized by the sunsets and the freshness of the sunrises indicating a brand new day. A floral scent that speaks to your senses from the scent of the fragrance from a rose, honeysuckle, and hyacinths that covers the atmosphere with perfumed fragrance. The intricate layering of a floral canvas and the intricacies of all of nature, speaks to you. A breeze and wind that you feel, but cannot see... but you know the wind there. You know, that is nature speaking. But is your life so hectic and chaotic that you rarely take the time to notice; if at all that nature is speaking to you?
