Excerpt from Program of Work for County Superintendents of Public Welfare: Including Instructions in Method and Procedure of Keeping Records

The duties of the County Superintendent of Public Welfare of North Carolina as provided in the law are as follows:

- I. As Chief School Attendance Officer, to enforce the compulsory education law, dealing particularly with those cases where unexcused absences beyond the jurisdiction of teacher or principal require investigation and action.
- II. To investigate applications for relief made to the County Commissioners and advise them as to proper disbursement of poor funds or other proper action relative to such cases.
- III. To act as agent of the State Board in relation to any work to be done by the State Board within the county.
- IV. To supervise and help persons discharged from hospitals for the insane and other state institutions, including state prison, reformatories, institutions for children, etc.
- V. To exercise oversight of persons in the county on parole from penitentiary and reformatories.
- VI. To look after and help children who are in danger of becoming delinquent or dependent and prevent such children from falling into delinquency or neglect.
- VII. To act as Probation Officer for children adjudged delinquent by the courts and to assume, under the direction of the court, the work of guardianship of children adjudged neglected.
- VIII. To promote wholesome recreation throughout the county for adults and children.
- IX. To enforce laws relating to amusement places or other commercialized recreation.
- X. To exercise oversight of dependent children who have, under the direction of the state board, been placed in homes within the confines of the county.
- XI. To help the unemployed to obtain employment.
- XII. To study conditions and causes of poverty and distress in their respective counties.
- XIII. To inspect and investigate county homes, convict camps, almshouses, and report to the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare such matters respecting these institutions as may be required by the State Board.
