

Eighth Report to the General Assembly of Rhode Island: Relating to the Registry and Returns of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, in the State, for the Year Ending December 31, 1860 (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Eighth Report to the General Assembly of Rhode Island: Relating to the Registry and Returns of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, in the State, for the Year Ending December 31, 1860

Gentlemen: - In compliance with chapter 76 of the Revised Statutes, the Eighth Annual Report relating to the Registry of Births, Marriages and Deaths in Rhode Island, during the year 1860, is respectfully submitted. A committee of the Rhode Island Medical Society has annually been appointed for the purpose of rendering such assistance as may be necessary in executing the provisions of the law. With the approval of this committee, the returns were placed in the hands of Edward A. Crane, M. D., of Providence, the writer of the last report, who has superintended the work of tabulation and contributed the remarks which follow. Many interesting facts and important principles are presented in connection with the vital movements of our populations, in the present report, while the results of registration are becoming, from year to year, more valuable, as the field of observation is extended, and the returns increase in accuracy and completeness. Although the returns are made more complete every year, there are, nevertheless, some towns in which there is still room for improvement. The larger cities and towns are, in all their parts, far more complete than those whose population is small, and in which, it is to be supposed, the returns would be more complete. Thus, the cities of Providence and Newport, and the large and populous towns of Smithfield, North Providence, Warwick and Cumberland, exhibit a completeness in their details which might be adduced as examples for some of the smaller towns to follow. The records of marriages are more perfect than the other returns, but not entirely so. These are made by the clergy and by them given to the town clerks. But it is in the records of births and deaths that the returns are most deficient. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
