

More Than a Sidewalk to Sleep On: A Wealth of Inspiring Gratitudes from Homeless & Low-Income Americans

A life coach who often helps others to experience more gratitude, Dave Wheitner saw room for more thankfulness in his own life. During a period of major life transition, he faced his fears and uncertainty about money, wealth, and financial security in an unlikely way. A way that he hoped could also help and inspire many others. Wheitner took to the city streets, speaking with dozens of homeless and financially limited people. He offered each one a few dollars and an unusual request: to jot down 10 things for which they were grateful on note cards. This book shares with you more than 500 of their gratitudes, along with colorful photographs inspired by each person. Often uplifting, sometimes saddening, and always eye opening, they beg an important question: If those who have so little can express such gratitude, why do the rest of us often struggle to be thankful? Included are ideas for using the book and gratitude to enhance your life and relationships. Dave experienced some profound realizations, and he wishes the same for you.
