

A Constant Suicide

Image. Sin. Suicide. Blame. College isnt all kegs and eggs. Chris feels like a loser. Hes sick of his Catholic high school life of obedience and order. He goes to college craving something else, but knows he wont find it on his own.

The socially adept Ethan takes Chris under his wing, sharing basement revelry traditions and introducing him to campus terrorism, with a few hundred-dollars worth of innocent fish as victims.

Everything seems fine until Ethan puts a gun in his mouth sophomore year. Chris has to find out why the envy of so many chose suicide as his way out. He wont like the answers. Part-memoir, part-fiction, this portrayal of the underside of campus life intertwines sarcasm and skepticism to define a culture seeking the never-ending party.
