

Tiptoeing to Tranquility: The Parable for Finding Safety and Comfort in Dangerous Times

Danielle is a mother who fears how dangerous the world has become. She wants safety and comfort without being forced to stay at home. So does her daughter, Jessie. They find a self-defense expert, Sam, who offers them lessons -- not in martial arts, rather lessons in Tiptoeing to Tranquility. Tiptoeing to Tranquility is the parable about learning to expand comfort zones in your city ... or any place you visit. Discover principles to be safe wherever you live, work, go to school, and travel. These are dangerous times, yet anyone can lead a safer and more secure life. This is the story that will show you how. Don't be a victim: Read the parable. Apply the principles. Be more tranquil and free from fear. Imagine taking control and applying these easy strategies, while you read Tiptoeing to Tranquility. About the Author: Keith Pascal left high-school teaching in 2000, to become a full-time author. He writes martial-arts how-to, advice for magicians, business, and juvenile fiction. Keith lives in Eugene, Oregon, with his wife, Kate, his daughter, Quinn, and their dog and cat.
