

The Secret of Golconda

Ron, Ella and their 4 young sons traveled over 4,000 miles to find their new home, a small log cabin, high in the San Juan Mountains of Colorado. It overlooked one of the most beautiful lakes in the world, Lake San Cristobal. It was there that the family began their epic 15 year struggle, building an old summer fishing camp into a modern, 20th century, full service resort. The fishing camp, called the Golconda, was the familys favorite vacation spot for several years. Finding it for sale in 1971, Rons repressed dream of owning a resort became an obsession. Ten months later, the family became the Golcondas new owners. Armed with only a dream, they soon learned dreams and realities are worlds apart. Confronting, politics, jealousies, tragedies, victories, defeats and the perils of nature, the familys battle to succeed was never without the equivalent emotional mayhem of a bungee jump.
