

Stinging Emotion

Nathalie has no social life. Her oversensitivity has wrecked her whole life. However ravaging isolation does not protect her from her worst nightmare. When she finds a visiting card with threatening words on it, she is convinced that the monster has come back to stalk her. Nathalie feels the urge to run away. She finds refuge at her parents house. As her escape appears to be hazardous, she is forced to face her childhood memories which gradually resurface. They unravel the misunderstandings between the child and her adoptive parents, whose priority was to keep up with appearances, notwithstanding emotional abuse Nathalie's brother had a devastating effect on the dysfunctional family. His violence scarred Nathalie for life. What is the reason for his harassing her now? Is Nathalie ready to confront the monster of her past? What is the meaning of his horrendous behaviour? This is the memoir of a vulnerable adoptee ensnared in a love-hate relationship.
