

My husband unexpectedly committed suicide, leaving me to deal with the void. I had to wrap up his financial affairs, plan a funeral, learn to live my life without him, and search for the answer to the one question that haunted me the most: why? Terry was a devoted husband, loving father, a loyal company man, and a devout Catholic. He enjoyed playing in dart leagues with his friends and spending time with his family. Our son, Christian, was a typical teenager who loved his father very much. I felt lucky to be married to this man. So how could he have left us? This is my first book and writing it was healing for me. It allowed me to process my emotions and helped me deal with the unimaginable grief. I also wanted to expose that there is a book on the market that coaches people how to commit suicide! I never knew such a book existed before Terry's death. It is my hope that anyone contemplating suicide, first seek medical help, and then try to understand the devastation they will leave behind. I hope my book Suicide: The Silent Harbinger will help others who may be going through the grieving process of suicide. Lynda McLaughlin Milakovich, RN, RRT, is a nurse in Cincinnati. I relived the nightmare over and over until writing it down gave me some resolution. I felt more educated about loss. In her spare time, she enjoys reading spiritual books and books on theoretical physics. Publishers website: <http://sbprabooks.com/LyndaMcLaughlinMilakovich>
