

The Lives of Korean Women in History: A Revelation

Korean women are an enigma. As sports figures, they are world champions and rank consistently among the best increasingly in dynamic sports, but especially in highly stressful static sports like archery and golf that demand the most in concentration and psychological composure. As celebrities, they are imitated and followed wherever they go by millions of their adoring fans. This book helps to answer What is their historical record? What influenced their consciousness? How were they raised? The Lives of Korean Women in History A Revelation lifts the veil on their past, shedding light on their environment and the conditions in which they lived that have molded them into what they are today.

Written by Byun Won-Lim, a fearless and truth-seeking scholar who lives abroad in self-imposed exile far away from the country that is entrenched in Confucianism and the Male Dominance Female Subservience doctrine that it promotes. A brief, but expansive historical account that will enlighten and surprise all its readers.
