

Pocket Book of Poems From a Teenage Heart

All the boys think they are on top of their game. And the girls, oh the girls, they all think the same. I know I'm not ugly, believe me I know. I just wonder at school does my beauty show. Is there love in sex? Can I find it there? Is there love in sex? Do these boys really care? Mom, I know you want to shape me, into who you want me to be, but how will I ever find myself, if you don't let me be me. This is a book of poems from the teenage heart. Whether through sex, school, or love, any teenage girl should be able to find herself in this book. The things I experienced when I was a teenager shaped who I am today. As a teenage girl, I learned life lessons about love, friendship, and how people are in general. So I share my teenage heart with those teenage girls who may be feeling or have felt these feelings in life.
