

Tony Casale is a uniquely successful entrepreneur. From humble beginnings in the Little Italy section of Wilmington, Delaware, he went on to make millions, only to lose everything in the real estate crash of the late 1980s. But from the ashes he rose. Climbing back from over $2 million in suffocating debt, he went on to even greater (and more enduring) success. What Tony learned about success is interesting and educational. What Tony learned from his failure is nothing short of amazing. Tonys story is riveting in itself, but the lessons he learned along the way are invaluable to anyone whos thinking of starting their own business, struggling with a business, or looking for a way to take their business to another level. A must-read for any entrepreneur.
