

Seven tasks before she can wield her telekinesis. One tyrant stands in her way. Two parents stolen by his hand. Lily must travel back to the magical land of her ancestors and reclaim her fathers throne before thousands are destroyed. The problem? She has no idea magic exists. With each step toward her telekinesis, Lily is given more insight into the world from which she was hidden. Before her journey to magic is complete, she must choose between the world in which she grew up and the family who raised her, or the thousands she could save by rejoining the magical community. What would it take for you to believe?
